

Sara Hauser, RN
Nurse Supervisor
Human Services

Sara Hauser began her nursing career by obtaining a BSN from Atlantic Christian College. Her first job was with Rex Hospital on St. Mary's Street in Pediatrics. Her public health career began in February 1982 in the Bulla Building where she worked until August 1988. She then transitioned to Rex Hospital to work in the OB department.

Sara returned to Wake County in 1994 and worked in immunizations and TB control until July 2012. From 2002 through 2012, she supervised the Immunization Clinic and assisted in writing immunization policies. She ensured staffing for the seasonal flu clinics held annually, as well as post-exposure mass clinics for Hep A outbreaks. She organized, trained and staffed during the H1N1 crisis in 2009.

Additionally, Sara has worked in emergency preparedness staffing of shelter posts for Hurricane Fran, Ophelia, Katrina and most recently Florence. In 2016, during Hurricane Matthew she worked to support an economic service site. She has also staffed FEMA drills and worked on potassium iodine distribution for residents near the Shearon Harris Nuclear Power Plant.

Since 2012 Sara has worked as the North Regional Clinic Nurse Supervisor, providing women's health, prenatal care, immunizations, child health and STD services. She works hard to provide services to her community and is incredibly passionate about ensuring all get the immunizations they require.

In retirement, she looks forward to spending time with her husband, children and grandchildren.

Please join me in congratulating Sara on her retirement.
