Interests & Experiences

Why are you interested in serving on a Board or Commission?

I am the Raleigh Fellow with IGNITE National. IGNITE National is a non-partisan nonprofit organization charged with politically empowering every young women. As a fellow I work directly with college women to facilitate IGNITE programming and develop a network of young women eager and prepared to be the next generation of political leaders. We find that, often times during college young women lose their political ambitions. We work directly with young women at this impactful time to cultivate that interest and turn it into political power. This understanding really resonated with me because during college I was a young woman who lost her political ambition as well. Being a fellow with this organization has resparked my resolve to run for office and enhance the political power of other young women. As such, we are encouraged to join boards and committees that we have an interest in.

By submitting this electronic application, if appointed, I pledge by my signature below that I have read and will comply with the ethics guidelines for advisory boards and commissions as adopted by the Wake County Board of Commissioners which are found at the link below.

Mary N.N. Black-Branch

(910)-551-1448 · marynnblack@gmail.com · <https://www.linkedin.com/in/maryblackb>

To Whom It May Concern,

I hope you will consider me for a Wake County, North Carolina Boards & Commissions.

I was immensely excited to see a position open with the Commission on Women as I have long been impressed with the work. I have found my passion in creating a positive and responsible relationship with the environment; and this been rooted habitually in policy, service, and advocacy work. I believe I would bring a diverse and valuable skillset and experience to an NC Board & Commission.

As you will see on my attached resume, I have 2 years experience working for various political campaigns and non-profit organizations where I have acquired skills in advocacy and lobbying, volunteer and staff management, grassroots organizing, development and management of organizational programs, and communicating with a diverse group of people. As an advocacy organizer with the Friends Committee on National Legislation, I implemented lobby visits with members of Congress to address their support of current climate, energy, and emergency preparedness policy. More recently, I assisted as Policy and Fundraising Consultant for Levon Barnes with his Durham City Council campaign. I am a board member for the Partners for Environmental Justice and spearhead their communications & youth outreach initiatives. Presently, I am the 2019-2020 Raleigh IGNITE National fellow. As an IGNITE fellow I work with women on their college campuses to help develop and implement political programming, provide career workshops and training, and help them unlock their ambition to run for office.

Throughout my years of study, I have demonstrated an outstanding level of academic strength in analytical, environmental and social science research, project development, social campaign development & communications, and leadership. My salient past research experience includes a year long project, where I conducted extensive research on climate modeling for urbanization; in cooperation with the City of Raleigh I made amendments to the 2030 Comprehensive Plan to the year 2045. My thesis, according to a prominent climate professor at NC State, presented “thoughtful, reasonable, and extensive policy recommendations to determine how to address the growing climate sensitivities faced by Raleigh’s rapidly growing population.”

I am certain that my interests and experiences makes me an ideal an NC board or commission. Thank you in advance for your consideration. I welcome the opportunity to interview, and look forward to a favorable response.

Sincerely,

Mary N. N. Black-Branch
