Low-Income Housing Tax Credits (LIHTC)

Every year the IRS issues housing tax credit capacity to each state in an amount based on its population.

States allocate housing tax credits for approved affordable housing developments on a competitive basis each year.

Typically, 50-70% of the financing comes from tax credit equity, 20-25% from bank debt, and the remaining from various sources such as government or owner investment.

LIHTC Public Private Partnership

Investors utilize the credits to offset tax liability.

Syndicators convert tax credits into equity by selling them to investors.

The developer will sell the housing tax credit allocation to a syndicator.
