Atul Goyal

Atul Goyal has extensive experience in product management, new product introduction, program management, quality and engineering.

Over his 19 year career, he has worked for several fortune 50 companies in US and India including Hughes, Siemens, Motorola, Wal-Mart, Pfizer and Zoetis as lead engineer, Program manager, Internal Consultant, Engineering Director, Lean Six Sigma Black Belt and Master Black Belt Consultant.

As a Program manager in Motorola, he was responsible for setting up a front end planning team for developing next generation mobile phones including demand-supply optimization, 36 month roadmaps, Software Bill-of-Material, feature content. In this role, he reduced Time-To-Market for next generation phone from 24 months to 20months.

Atul was instrumental in creating communication effectiveness program at Sams Club unit of Wal-Mart and streamlined the head-office/store communication. He used advanced analytics to measure effectiveness of actions for regulation/policy compliance, store setup, merchandise display and visibility.

Atul's Six Sigma career started with Motorola where he earned his Green Belt, Black Belt and Master Black Belt certifications. He led multiple Continuous Improvement projects which reduced Motorola warranty liability to the tune of $30M/year and increased New Product Introduction velocity.

He coached many Green Belt and Black Belt projects and was recognized as the Master Trainer within Motorola Continuous Improvement community.

Education

Atul graduated from University of Delhi with a BTech in Computer Engineering.

He also holds an MBA from Northwestern University, Evanston, IL
He is a certified PMP from Project Management Institute
Six Sigma Master Black Belt, Motorola

Interests & Experiences

Why are you interested in serving on a Board or Commission?

I have had a long-standing interest in supporting education in North Carolina, in particular efforts dedicated to supporting careers in science and technology. I think that the Wake Community College has a unique position to fundamentally influence the direction of education of the state with significant implication on the future outlook of the country. I was excited about my potential engagement in defining the strategic growth and direction for the college when the opportunity to join the board of trustees was presented. More than at any other time, at this point of my career, I wanted to increase my focus on leveraging the experience and connections I have gained throughout my career to help advance education since I consider this to be the most important effort for the future of this state and country.

Work Experience

I am currently Chief Quality Officer and Senior Vice-President of Global Quality for Biogen. In this capacity I have worldwide responsibility over Corporate Quality, Quality Control, IT Quality, and Quality Operations at all Biogen production sites. I have been with Biogen for the last sixteen years. I have over 25 years of industrial experience in the area of biological manufacturing and hold a Ph.D. in Biochemistry and Toxicology from North Carolina State University. My doctoral research was in the area of protein chemistry. I also have post-Doctoral experience in the Chemical Engineering department at NC State University, where I studied novel techniques for large-scale protein purification, and a Masters of Science degree in Organic Chemistry. Prior to joining Biogen, I was Director in the Process Sciences department at Centocor, Inc. and, before that, held positions of increasing responsibility over an eight-year period for Bayer Biological Products in Analytical Development, Quality Control, and Quality Assurance. I started my career working in R&D for Akzo Nobel. I was born in Seville, Spain and grew up in Puerto Rico.

Volunteer Experience

I have been involved in many different types of volunteer activities. For 12 years I participated in medical mission teams in South America and served as Board President of "Manos de Compasion" non-profit focused on establishing self-sustaining medical clinics in Ecuador. I am currently Board member of the Kenan Institute at NC State. I was board member for five years of NC State's Poole College of management. I am currently in the Biogen Foundation Board of Directors. I created a non-profit called Ingenuitas that is currently in operation. Ingenuitas has a focus of introducing High School students to the potential of innovation in science to solve current health problems in the developing world. I have also been involved consistently in numerous church-related volunteer activities, principally in the area of teaching for youth and children.

Education

PhD in Biochemistry in Toxicology from NC State University. MS in Organic Chemistry from the University of Dayton in Dayton, Ohio and a BS in Chemistry from the University of Dayton. Additionally, throughout my career I have been involved in numerous business continuous education opportunities.

SEP '88 - DEC '89

TRAINING:	5/87 - 8/88	Post-Doctoral Fellow, Chemical Engineering Department, North Carolina State University, Raleigh, NC
	1/83 - 4/87	NIH Pre-Doctoral Trainee, Biochemistry Department, NC State University, Raleigh, NC
	5/81 - 12/82	Research Assistant, Chemistry Department, University of Dayton, Dayton, Ohio
	5/79 - 4/81	Research Technician, University of Dayton Research Institute, Dayton, Ohio

EXPERIENCE SUMMARY

Biogen, Inc. Responsible for a Global Quality organizations of over 600 employees worldwide. Responsible for all Quality Systems end to end, including those covering production, development, and clinical studies. Responsibilities include release of drug substance, drug product, raw materials, and manufacturing components for biological and small molecule products. The activities within quality operations include, among others, the stability program, management of product retains, document control, change management, and discrepancy management. The Quality Control departments carry out chemical testing, bioanalytical testing, microbiological/virus testing, and environmental monitoring. Responsibilities also include Corporate Compliance, Quality Supply Chain, Training, and Global Standards. Responsible over regulatory submissions in all markets and the management of regulatory filings with health authorities worldwide.

Centocor, Inc. Directed a highly technical group with responsibility over analytical method development and transfer for biotechnology products. Supported technology transfers and regulatory inspections of contract manufacturing sites. Lead a group of 30 scientists. As part of Centocor's senior management team; responsibilities included setting policies and procedures to meet compliance standards and industry best practices in validation, technology transfer, and analytical development.

Bayer Corporation Directed a Quality Control organization of over 160 employees. Responsibilities included: testing of plasma-derived parenteral drugs, site environmental monitoring and management of an AAALAC-certified animal facility. Lead fundamental process-improvement initiatives that resulted in over 50% reduction in baseline cycle times for analytical testing in support of product release. Instituted programs for analytical tracking and trending, defined new standards for analytical investigations and lead numerous initiatives for replacement of existing analytical methods with new technologies. Acquired extensive experience in interaction with US and European regulatory inspectors.

Organon Teknika

Managed a group of approximately 12 scientists, mostly at the PhD-level, in the development of new diagnostic kits and reagents in the area of Thrombosis and Hemostasis.

Akzo Chemicals

Staff scientist responsible for exploring new analytical technologies of commercial potential.

LEADERSHIP

President and Founder of Ingenuitas, a non-for-profit organization developing health solutions for the developing world

Member, NC State College of Management Advisory Board

Founding member and Board President for “Hands of Compassion” non-profit organization, providing primary medical services for impoverished communities in South America
